TROOPS SCALE CLIFFS AND CAPTURE TRENCH

Story of Campaign Against the Turks as Told British Press Representative.

LONDON, May 7, 2:45 a.m.-A Brit h press representative with the forces the Dardanelles sends a long and ineresting account of the landing of the ustralians and New Zealanders on the allipoli peninsula north of the Gaba epeh at daylight of April 25.

"The night before," the account says, the entire fleet of warships and transorts left their rendezvous, the crews of he warships cheering the soldiers on to ictory, while the bands played them out with an endless variety of popular airs. The arrangement was that the 29th Diviion should disembark near Seddul Bahr. and the Dardanelles by the fire of the warships, the Australians and New Zeaanders, north of Gaba Tepeh to make a demonstration farther north. The splendid organization made it possible to carry out the program without confusi-

"After a short service by the chaplains the ships parted company and made for their landing places. At dusk all lights were extinguished and the troops re-tired for rest before the ordeal of dawn. was a beautiful night, lit up by a very oright half-moon. The sea was abso-

"Early in the morning the men were aroused from their slumbers and served with a hot meal. At 2:05 o'clock in the norning the order was given to disem-The boats, which were manned by bluejackets and commanded by young nidshipmen, slowly were towed to the each by pinnaces. .

midshipmen, slowly were towed to the beach by pinnaces.

"The first authentic news we received on board the battleship London of the landing came with the return of our boats. The steamer pinnace came alongside with two recumbent forms on her deck and a small figure, pale but cheerful and waving his hand, astern. They were one of our midshipmen, just sixteen years of age, who was shot through the stomach but regarded his injury more as a fitting consummation to a glorious holiday ashore than a wound, and the chief stoker and a petry officer.

"All three were wounded by the first burst of musketry, which caused many casualties in the boats just as they reached the beach. From them we learned that all the tows had almost reached the beach when a party of Turks, intrenched almost on the shore, opened up a terrible fusiliade from their rifles and also from a maxim. Fortunately most of the bullets went high, but nevertheless many men were hit as they sat huddled together, forty or fifty in a boat.

Australians Wade Ashore.

The Australian volunteers waited either for orders nor for boats to reach the beach, but springing out into the sea they waded ashore and forming some sort of a rough line rushed straight on toward the flashes f the enemy's rifles.

"Their magazines had not even been charged but they just went in with rold steel. And I believe I am right n saying that the first Ottoman Turk since the last crusade received an Anglo-Saxon bayonet in him at five ninutes after 5 o'clock on the morning of April 25. "It was over in a minute. The Turks n this first trench were bayoneted or ran way, and their maxim gun was cap-

"Then the Australians found themselves facing an almost perpendicular cliff of loose sandstone with thick shrubbery, and somewhere half way up the enemy had a second trench, strongly held, from which they poured a terrific fire on the troops below, and the boat pulling back to the destroyers for a second landing party.

Colonials in Impetuous Charge.

"The colonials stopped a few minutes pull themselves together and to get id of their packs, and then charged with heir magazines.

"Then this race of athletes proceeded scale cliffs without responding to the enemy's fire. And in less than a quarter of an hour the Turks were out of their second position, either bayoneted or in full retreat.

"In the early part of the day very heavy capabilities were suffered in the hosts."

casualties were suffered in the boats which conveyed the troops from the de-stroyers, tugs and transports to the beach. As soon as it became light the enemy's As soon as it became light the enemy's sharpshooters concentrated their fire on the boats when they got near in. The landing continued throughout the day under this fire, which could not be checked.

"The Australians finally established themselves on a ridge and advanced northward, and throughout the day confused fighting took place, the ships assisting the troops with the fire from their guns. The Turks only had a comparatively weak force actually holding the beach. They seemed to have relied on the difficult nature of the ground and their scattered sniping to delay the advance until they had brought up reinforcements from the interior.

Suffer Heavy Losses

Suffer Heavy Losses.

"Some of the Australians who pushed inland counter-attacked and were almost outflanked by these oncoming reserves and had to fall back, after suffering very heavy casualties. "It was then the turn of the Turks to counter-attack, and this they continued to do throughout the afternoon.

tinued to do throughout the afternoon, but the Australians never yielded a foot of ground on the main ridge and reinforcements were continually poured up from the beach.

"As soon as the light became good the Turks enfiladed the beach with field guns. This shrapnel fire was incessant and deadly. The Turkish guns, however finally were nut out of exting however, finally were put out of action however, finally were put out of action by the ships.

"The Turks brought up reinforcements and the pressure on the colonials became greater, but they held on in face of the difficulties, which included the landing of water, ammunition and supplies on the narrow beach and carrying them up the bluffs several hundred feet high to the firing lines, while the troops were exposed to an incessant shrappel fire.

"Another problem was taking the wounded back to the ships, but the wounded men showed the greatest fortitude, cheering the ships as they passed in their boats."

Planning Randle Highlands Meeting A special meeting of the executive committee of the Randle Highlands Citcommittee of the Randle Highlands Citizens' Association was held last night in the office of the U. S. Realty Company to further plans for the open meeting to be held this month, to mark the close of the work until the fall. M. A. Frazier, as chairman of the special committee, reported much progress. It is proposed to use the roof of the school building for this meeting, and the District Commissioners, members of Congress and others prominent in civic affairs in the District will be invited. An auxillary committee of women will be appointed to prepare and serve refreshments.
